DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET.

Governor,
J. P. RICHARDSON, of Clarendon.
Lieutenant Governor,
W. L. MAULDIN, of Greenville.
Secretary of State,
W. Z. LEITNER, of Kershaw.
Comptroller General,
W. E. STONEY, of Berkeley.
Attorney General,
J. H. EARLE, of Sumter.
State Treasurer,
I. S. BAXTER, of Barnwell.
Assistant and Inspector General,
A. M. MAXWELL, of Georgetown.
Superintendent of Education,
J. H. RICE, of Abbeville.

Mr. B. R. TILMAN is said to have made the statement, in his recent speech at Abbeville, that "it was no honor to be among the coterie of debased and corrupt men who have governed us since '76." "Debased and corrupt" is the phrase applied to Hampton, Simpson, Jeter, Hagood and Thompson, and other men of equally good records in public and private life! Do the farmers endorse this accusation?

A DISPATCH TO THE BALTIMORE SUN SAYS:

Mr. Tilden's fortune has been estimated to be from $7,000,000 to $10,000,000. From a good source it is learned that the estate is worth about $9,000,000. It is understood that Mr. Jas. C. Carter drew up a will for Mr. Tilden two years ago, which he executed. It is said that after making the will the Governor was not entirely satisfied with it, but whether he made any alterations since is not known. It has long been known that Mr. Tilden had intended to bequeath his beautiful city residence in Gramercy Park, with its large and valuable collection of books, to the city for use as a public library. In December, 1883, Mr. Tilden stated in an interview with a close and valued friend, that he had always intended to leave his books to the city for a public library, and he considered it fitting to erect a handsome and substantial treasure house for the literary gems. He concluded that the best place for this building would be on the site of his old Gramercy Park residence. He bought the adjoining building, and letting Mr. Vaux, the architect, into his confidence, erected a handsome structure, admirably adapted for a library and literary institute. Under his will the Gramercy Park house and large collection of books will be left in trust to the city for a public library. The trustees are Mr. Henry Watson and Mr. Mark Twain, of New York, and Mr. John Bigelow, of New York. The value of the books and engravings is said to be at least $100,000. The buildings when rebuilt caused an expenditure of nearly $500,000. Altogether the property with its contents is worth $1,000,000. The amount of the endowment is a matter of conjecture.

Samuel J. Tilden.

It is with feelings of the profoundest regret that we announce the death of the Hon. Samuel J. Tilden, which occurred at his home on the Hudson early on Wednesday morning. His death was not expected at the time, as he had been in usual health up to within a few days of the event. On Saturday evening he was taken with a slight chill from which he never rallied, and on Wednesday morning he passed peacefully and quietly away. There was perhaps no man in America who stood higher in the annals of the Democratic party, or who exercised more influence in its representative assemblies. In his death the Democratic party has lost its wisest counselor and the country its ablest statesman. May his noble example inspire many of the country of which we are all proud, to follow in his footsteps. We join with the American people in saying, may he rest in peace.

The Mount Zion Institute.

We would call special attention to the announcement of the Mount Zion Institute, to be found in another column.

It has been the aim of the Trustees of this institution to bring it up to the standards of the very best high-schools in the State. One difficulty, during the past eight years or longer, has been in the insufficient, and frequently uncomfortable, accommodations afforded by the school buildings. To meet this trouble, the citizens of Winnsboro took steps, last summer, to provide the means for putting up new buildings—one for school purposes proper, and one for the president's residence. After several meetings, in which the whole subject was fully considered, it was determined that the municipality of Winnsboro should issue bonds, in the sum of $75,000—the money to be used in erecting the necessary buildings and in improving the grounds of the Institute. As soon as the citizens took final action, the Winnsboro National Bank offered to take the bonds at par—thus removing the single cause of any misgiving as to the propriety of the subscription.

The necessary authority being procured, the bonds were issued, and steps were at once taken for the erection of the new buildings. The Institute building is of brick, containing eight school-rooms of ample size, well lighted and well ventilated. The building as a whole presents a very handsome appearance. Good judges pronounce the workmanship first class. The school-rooms are furnished throughout with improved school-furniture, and with the necessary apparatus.

The dwelling-house for the President is now in course of erection. It will be a comfortable house, containing six rooms of convenient size, and will form a most important addition to the property of the Institute.

Prof. W. H. Withrow, the newly-elected President, has had large experience as an instructor of youth. With him, teaching has been a profession—not a mere make-shift or mere stepping-stone to something more desirable. Teaching is Professor Withrow's life-work. For twenty years past he has devoted to it all his talent. His last position was that of Principal of the Chester Graded School, where he has accomplished a great work, and has given the highest satisfaction. He has been several times an instructor in the State Institute for Teachers, and always made a fine impression. Professor Withrow is a gentleman of very pleasing manners, and at the same time a most excellent disciplinarian. The Trustees are fortunate in having procured his services.

Mr. Sabritt D. Dunn is a distinguished graduate of the South Carolina College, where he made excellent use of the advantages afforded by that grand old institution. He received his common-school training at the Mount Zion Institute, and after his graduation from the State College he was elected to the position of assistant teacher here. This place he has for the past year filled with honor to himself, and to the entire satisfaction of the patrons of the Institute.

Miss Emily S. Obeas was elected an assistant teacher in the Mount Zion Graded School upon its establishment in January, 1878. Her continued reelection each year up to this time is sufficient proof that she is an intelligent, painstaking and altogether successful teacher. She has devoted herself ardently to her profession, and has often enjoyed the advantages of the Teachers' Institutes in this State.

Miss Lilla M. Beaty received a thorough training in the Mount Zion Graded School, completing the higher course, and she has already taught in the institution, being several times re-elected. She is a progressive, well-trained and successful teacher. She has frequently availed herself of the valuable aids afforded by the Teachers' Institutes.

Miss Nannie A. Phinney also received her training at Mount Zion, taking a very high stand, and, on completing the higher course, was elected to the position she now holds—which position she has filled with much credit to herself. Like the other teachers in Mount Zion, she has made excellent use of the advantages offered by the Teachers' Institutes.

Mrs. R. C. Gooding was formerly a teacher in the Mount Zion Graded School, and her resignation was felt by everybody to occasion a loss to the institution. She is a skillful teacher of drawing—the members of her different classes making excellent progress, and attaining great proficiency in their art.

Miss Fannie T. Jordan received her musical training chiefly under Prof. A. Baumann, of Peace Institute, Raleigh, N. C.—of which institution she is a graduate. Professor Baumann, himself a fine musician, and a music teacher of long experience, bears flattering testimony to Miss Jordan's great fitness for the department of which she will have charge at the Mount Zion Institute.

Taken as a whole the corps of teachers is all that can be desired, to keep the institution up to the highest standards of efficiency, and to keep it abreast of the progress constantly making in the science and art of teaching.

With all these facilities, with the great advantages, moral, social and hygienic, afforded by its locality, it may justly be expected, as it is fervently hoped by the many who love old Mount Zion, that the new Mount Zion will be long occupy that high position among the institutions of the State, in which it is the desire and the determination of Trustees and teachers alike to place it.

The State Convention.

Unusual interest centred in the recent State Convention of the Democratic party of South Carolina. The condition of politics here was considered such that it was difficult to forecast any result of the action of that body. An important factor in shaping the probable course of events was thought to be the "farmers' movement"—the leaders and spokesmen of which had avowed their purpose to take a hand in politics. A short time before the State Convention met it was publicly stated that Mr. B. R. Tillman, the leader of the "farmers' movement", had said that his sympathizers had been elected to the Convention, in sufficient numbers to enable him to shape the action of that body. Whether this report was true, we undertake not to say. True or false, it was in keeping with the avowed aim of Mr. Tillman that the farmers intended to take a hand in politics. How far Mr. Tillman actively sought to get control of the Convention, we cannot tell; but it is not unjust to him to say that he did desire such control.

After the emphatic announcement by General Bratton that he was not in the race for Governor, the contest soon narrowed down to two gentlemen—Gov. John C. Sheppard and Col. John Peter Richardson. There were other aspirants who had warm supporters, but not enough of them.

The County Convention of Edgefield enthusiastically elected Mr. B. R. Tillman County Chairman, and sent him at the head of the delegation to the State Convention. The same County Convention, with the same enthusiasm, endorsed John C. Sheppard for the office of Governor of South Carolina. This was a remarkable combination. Let us see. Mr. Sheppard is a lawyer. He is a politician—using that term in no offensive sense. He has been an officeholder under every Democratic administration in this State. He belongs to that class of whom Mr. Tillman, in a speech at Abbeville, is reported by the Press and Banner to have used these strong words: "God forbid that I should be so low and debased as to meet and commingle with that low crowd at Columbia, unless I go there as a man, intending to do my duty." Mr. Sheppard, as legislator and lieutenant-governor, has "commingled" with the "low crowd" for well-nigh ten years. Ma. Tillman, judging him by his own utterances, was willing to make one of this "low crowd" Governor of South Carolina! At all events he permitted himself to go to Columbia, instructed to compass Mr. Sheppard's election. He was to try to elect a man who, according to his own public declarations, embodied the ideas and practices against which he was earnestly seeking to array the farmers of South Carolina. This position of Mr. Tillman caused surprise, and excited suspicion.

It soon became apparent that the News and Courier was a friend of Mr. Sheppard, and was doing what it could to further his nomination. It soon declared, with an air of one who had exhausted the field of information, that Mr. Sheppard was leading in the race for Governor. Then came rumors, not yet denied by anybody, that there was a triple alliance—Governor Sheppard, Mr. Tillman and the News and Courier, forgetting all past differences, had united in an effort to put in the highest office in the State a lawyer, politician and office-holder! It looked as if the combination would succeed, and people wondered!

The Convention came. At the last moment Mr. Sheppard, according to one statement in the News and Courier, was still in the lead. Then came the vote. Mr. Sheppard was badly beaten. His highest vote was eighty out of three hundred and eighteen—barely a fraction over one-fourth!

It is not generous to rejoice over the defeat of any individual. But if there was the combination—the triple alliance—to which we have alluded, then we think the people of South Carolina are pleased to find that the combination was ineffectual. The office of Governor of the State is too high, too sacred, a thing to be subject-matter of traffic—even though one consideration for the trade be the saving of the Citadel Academy, and the placing of Mr. B. R. Tillman's choice in the executive office.

The nomination of Col. John Peter Richardson is a triumph for the conservative element in our politics—for those who are opposed to class conflicts and class legislation—for those especially who opposed the combination which is openly charged to have been made.

Col. Richardson will fill the office with credit to himself, with honor to the State, and with satisfaction to all her people. He will be well supported by the other nominees on the State ticket—each of them altogether worthy of the trust reposed in him.

There were dangers in anticipation, before the Convention. These have been averted. The Democracy here is staunch and solid. South Carolina is safe.

In connection with the above, we print the following from the News and Courier of the 9th inst:

Most of the campaign stories which were circulated so industriously in Columbia during the sessions of the State Convention were telegraphed, it seems, to the principal Northern and Southern newspapers. It is, perhaps, just as well, therefore, to say, once more, that Capt. Dawson made no combination with any one for the benefit or injury of any candidate, and that, far from being in "private conference" with Gen. Tillman in Columbia, he had no conversation whatever with that gentleman except on the floor of the Convention.
